

Travel emergencies can happen anywhere, anytime.

Fortunately, we're always open.

The world can be unpredictable – from an earthquake in Haiti to mudslides in China, and from volcanic ash in Iceland to political unrest in Egypt, natural (and manmade) disasters can strike at a moment's notice. Fortunately, when you are protected by Assist America's global emergency services, you can travel anywhere, anytime, knowing that powerful medical and other emergency resources are just a single phone call away.

Other assistance providers have geographic restrictions that can change daily based on world conditions--and they leave the responsibility up to their members to find out whether a travel destination is "open for business." Often these providers will close services without warning just when members need them most--in high-risk terrain, during high-profile events, or in times of political instability.

Assist America never restricts or suspends countries or regions for service, period. And since the world never closes, neither do we--our operations center is open and ready to help 24/7.
